Together

composed by Adam Silverman (2016) • for flute and vibraphone 5 minutes

This piece was commissioned as an anniversary gift from percussionist Brian Nozny to his flute-playing spouse, Rachel, and, as a reflection of marriage, is an exploration of "togetherness" in which two musical instruments combine in such an extreme manner as to blur the identity of each to make a unified whole. The instruments double one another as the piece begins, but as the music progresses, they come to function as cooperative partners, exchanging roles of leader and follower. Some aspects of the music was inspired by Dutch composer Louis Andriessen as well as by the percussion compositions of Brian Nozny, who is an inspiration to me and a behind-the-scenes collaborator on nearly every percussion piece I compose.
